

FOLLOW the TUNA (King Tuna)

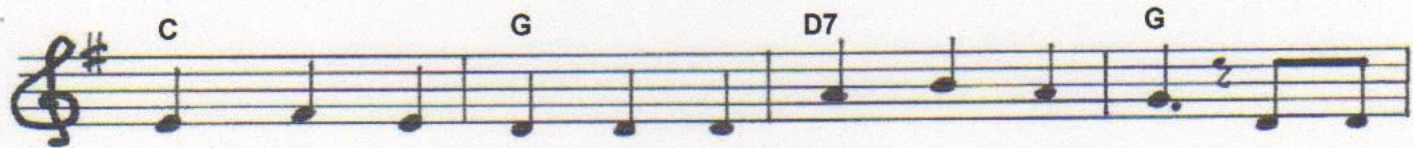

Words & Music by Bob Watson

Jaunty in Three

Verse

Of all the fine fi - shes that swim in the sea, ---- the tu - na's as fine as is like - ly to be, For he's hand - some and swift with an el - e - gant fin, --- but now he's been caught and he's locked in a tin. And it's pull you long li - ners, with your hooks all in tow, ---- They'll fol - low King Tu - na where e - ver he go. ---

FOLLOW the TUNA (King Tuna)

Words & Music by Bob Watson

1. Of all the fine fishes that swim in the sea, the tuna's as fine as is likely to be;
For he's handsome and swift with an elegant fin, but now he's been caught and he's locked in a tin.

Chorus: And it's pull you long liners, with your hooks all in tow,
They'll follow King Tuna wherever he go.

2. Now a fish he can swim, and the tuna's not slow, he's swift as an arrow that's fired from a bow;
But it's once on the hook, then he's swimming no more, next stop is a shelf in the grocery store.

Chorus

3. The Russian, the Spaniard and the cool Japanee, they chase poor King Tuna right over the sea,
As they search those wide waters, the shoals for to find, then they chuck out their lines & they drag 'em behind.

Chorus

4. They send little planes for to lurk in the air, to send back the word when they see the shoals there;
Don't care for the dolphins that wallow and play -- likewise if an albatross gets in the way!

Chorus

5. The Blue fin, the Big eye, the Skipjack and all, they're grist for the mill when the long liners trawl,
As they pillage the ocean and take of its wealth, to stack up in cans on a grocery shelf.

Chorus

6. Repeat first verse